DETAILED ACTION

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by US Patent 6559915 ("915").

Regarding claim 1, 915 teaches a liquid crystal display device, which comprises a top polarizer [51/62a], a lower polarizer [51/61/52a], a liquid crystal element [63], and a back light assemble [18], said device is characterized by that the top polarizer is not subjected to an anti-glaring treatment and the lower polarizer is subjected to an anti-glaring treatment [see the first second and third paragraphs of column 26].

Regarding claim 2, 915 teaches the liquid crystal display device according to claim 1, in which said top polarizer is further provided with a hardening layer [41].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 3-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over 915.

Regarding claims 3-4, 915 teaches the liquid crystal display device according to claim 1, but lacks said lower polarizer being subjected to the anti-glaring treatment to an extent that a haze value of the lower polarizer is in the range of from 5 to 50%. However, 915 teaches overlapping ranges which are at least obvious. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of invention to increase the haze to 50% to improve the anti-glare characteristics. Increasing the lower end of the range to 20% would have been an obvious matter of design choice because improving haze decrease brightness due to backscatter. Thus, one of ordinary skill would have to optimize by choosing between brightness or anti-glare.
